Resolve providing for an investigation and study by a special commission relative to the need for accessible homes for the elderly, returning veterans with disabilities, and families that include persons with disabilities.

1    Resolved, that a special commission is hereby established for the purpose of making an 2    investigation and study relative to the need for accessible homes for the elderly, returning
3    veterans with disabilities, and families that include persons with disabilities. This commission 4    shall review and evaluate options that will result in expanded opportunities for elderly persons,
5    disabled veterans and families who have a child or an adult with mobility limitations to have 6    reasonable access to the homes of their families, their friends and their neighbors in the 7    commonwealth through the application of building standards known as Inclusive Home Design, 8    also known as Basic Home Design, or Visitability.

9            The commission shall review studies that assess the need and the ability to expand such 10    basic accessibility features in homes to ensure there will be growing opportunities for people 11    with mobility limitations to have relationships of quality with their families and friends, to 12    maximize their ability to be fully integrated into the communities in which they live, and by 13    fostering their independence, to help them find purpose and the ability to contribute to 14    community needs in a meaningful way. The commission shall consider the extent to which 15    accomplishing this requires an investment in building a housing supply that is responsive not 16    only to people's present needs, but also their needs as they age and the needs of future 17    generations.

18           In this light, the commission shall conduct its review and evaluate the need for increasing 19    the number of visitable homes in the commonwealth (a) by identifying studies with demographic 20    analyses that consider the proportion of present and future households having a member with a mobility limitation, (b) by examining existing housing, and the design and rate of new housing being built in the commonwealth now and in the future that would allow a person with a mobility limitation to visit, or otherwise be accommodated temporarily, or over a longer period of time, (c) by considering the total number of family members who would likely occupy a single housing unit over its functionally useful life, and the likelihood that during this time, someone with a mobility limitation will live there and would be better accommodated if the home has features related to Inclusive Home Design, and (d) by reviewing other studies and conducting such other analyses as the commission in its discretion believes are relevant to its determination of the need to expand the number of visitable homes in the commonwealth.

The commission shall examine strategies to increase public awareness of (a) the need for visitable homes, (b) the options that would be effective in expanding the number of such homes that are available to meet this need in communities across the commonwealth, and (c) the costs and benefits of a successful program that accomplishes these ends.

The commission shall review the policies that underlay existing publicly financed and funded housing development programs in state government and in local jurisdictions in the commonwealth and determine the extent to which there are policies that have been adopted or are under consideration involving Inclusive Home Design as a minimum accessibility standard, and consider the reasonable options for extending the coverage of such policies to all new housing produced in the commonwealth.

The commission shall consider such changes in public policy, regulation and legislation that are necessary to meet the need for visitable homes in the commonwealth by the year 2040, or such other year as the commission may determine to be more appropriate during its review. It shall formulate its recommendations taking into account the best practices and experiences in other states and jurisdictions, including a comparison of the effectiveness of incentives versus adoption of building code standards that are central to Inclusive Home Design.

The Special commission shall consist of 3 members of the senate, 1 of whom shall be appointed co-chair of the commission; 3 members of the house of representatives, 1 of whom shall be appointed co-chair of the commission; the Secretary of the Executive Office of Elder Affairs, or a designee; the Secretary of the Department of Veterans' Services, or a designee; the Director of the Office on Disability, or a designee; the Secretary of Housing and Economic Development, or a designee; the commissioner of the Department of Public Safety, or a designee; the Executive Director of the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency, or a designee; the Executive Director of the Disability Law Center of Massachusetts, or a designee; the Executive Director of the Boston Center for Independent Living, or a designee; the state director of AARP Massachusetts, or a designee; the President of LeadingAge Massachusetts, or a designee; the Executive Director of Citizens' Housing and Planning Association, or a designee; and three individuals of whom one is an architect with considerable experience in accessibility

58 issues related to Inclusive Home Design, and two of whom represent home builders in 59 Massachusetts of which one is a nonprofit home builder.

60 All appointments shall be made not later than 60 days after the effective date of this 61 resolve. The chairpersons shall meet with the commission not later than 90 days after the 62 effective date of this resolve, and shall meet not less than bi-monthly thereafter.

63 The Special commission shall be empowered to hold regular public meetings, fact-64 finding hearings and other public forums as it considers necessary. Members shall not receive 65 compensation for their services but may receive reimbursement for the reasonable expenses
66 incurred in carrying out their responsibilities as members of the commission

67 The commission shall issue its final report and recommendations within 180 days after 68 first convening. The commission shall report on its recommendations, including 69 recommendations for legislation, if any, to the senate president, the speaker of the house, and the 70 governor, and shall file the same with the clerks of the senate and the house of representatives, 71 who shall forward the same to the all commission members.
