The Commonwealth of Massachusetts

In the Year Two Thousand Thirteen

An Act relative to protective custody.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1 SECTION 1. Chapter 111 E of the General Laws, as appearing in the 2010 Official 2 edition, is hereby amended by inserting after section 9 the following new section:-

3 Section 9A Overdosed persons; assistance to facility or protective custody

4 Section 9A. Any person who is incapacitated by a drug overdose may be assisted by a 5 police officer or emergency technician with or without their consent and shall be placed in 6 protective custody at a police station or transferred to a facility. To determine for purposes of this 7 chapter only, whether or not such person has had a drug overdose, the police officer or 8 emergency technician would have to have used a narcan or similar chemical derivative to 9 resuscitate the person from the overdose.

10 Any person presumed to have overdosed, and to be held in protective custody at a police 11 station shall, immediately after such presumption, have the right and be informed of said right to 12 make one phone call at his own expense and on his own behalf. Any person assisted by a police 13 officer to a facility under this section shall have the right to make one phone call at his own
14 expense on his own behalf and shall be informed forthwith upon arriving at the facility of said
15 right. The parent or guardian of any person, under the age of eighteen, to be held in protective

16 custody at a police station shall be notified forthwith upon his arrival at said station or as soon as 17 possible thereafter.

18 If any incapacitated person is assisted to a police station, the officer in charge or his 19 designee shall notify forthwith the nearest facility that the person is being held in protective 20 custody. If suitable treatment services are available at a facility, the department shall thereupon 21 arrange for the transportation of the person to the facility in accordance with the provisions of 22 section nine.

23 No person assisted to a police station pursuant to this section shall be held in protective 24 custody against his will; provided, however, that if suitable treatment at a facility is not available, 25 an incapacitated person may be held in protective custody at a police station until he is evaluated
26 by a psychiatrist or physician and are offered the resources that are available for their possible 27 addiction, or for a period not longer than twelve hours, whichever is shorter.

28 A police officer acting in accordance with the provisions of this section may use such 29 force as is reasonably necessary to carry out his authorized responsibilities. If the police officer 30 reasonably believes that his safety or the safety of other persons present so requires, he may 31 search such person and his immediate surroundings, but only to the extent necessary to discover 32 and seize any dangerous weapons which may on that occasion be used against the officer or 33 other person present; provided, however, that if such person is held in protective custody at a 34 police station all valuables and all articles which may pose a danger to such person or to others 35 may be taken from him for safekeeping and if so taken shall be inventoried.

36 A person assisted to a facility or held in protective custody by the police pursuant to the 37 provisions of this section, shall not be considered to have been arrested or to have been charged 38 with any crime. An entry of custody shall be made indicating the date, time, place of custody, the 39 name of the assisting officer, the name of the officer in charge, whether the person held in 40 custody exercised his right to make a phone call, such entry shall not be treated for any purposes,
41 as an arrest or criminal record
