An Act relative to the Office of Senior Justice.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1           SECTION 1. Chapter 32 of the General Laws, as appearing in the 2010 Official Edition,
2 is hereby amended by inserting after section 65F the following section:

3           Section 65F½. A chief justice, or associate justice of the appeals court who is retired
4 from or resigns his office, having attained the age of sixty-five years but not having attained the
5 age of seventy years and who is receiving a pension at an annual rate equal to three fourths of the 6 rate of salary payable to him at the time of his retirement or resignation may notify the chief
7 justice of the appeals court in writing that he wishes his name to be placed upon the list of senior
8 justices of the appeals court. The chief justice of the appeals court shall place the name of any 9 such chief justice or associate justice on the list of senior justices of the appeals court. With 10 respect to those whose names have been placed on such list upon retirement, any retired chief
11 justice or associate justice or any surviving spouse of such chief justice or associate justice, shall 12 be entitled to the same pension and all other benefits which he or his surviving spouse would
13 have been entitled to receive if he had retired without his name having been placed on such list,
14 notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, and a vacancy shall exist in the judicial office
15 theretofore occupied by such retired chief justice or associate justice.

16           A retired chief justice or associate justice of the appeals court whose name has been 17 placed on the list of senior justices shall be eligible to perform judicial duties until attaining the age of seventy years or until requesting, in writing, that his or her name be removed from the list of senior justices.

A retired chief justice or associate justice of the appeals court, while eligible to perform such judicial duties, shall not engage in the practice of law directly or indirectly, and shall not hold any office which is incompatible with holding the office of justice of the court of which he is on the senior justice list under the provisions of Article II of Chapter VI of Part the Second of the Constitution of the Commonwealth or Article VIII of the Amendments thereto.

SECTION 2. Said chapter 32 of the General Laws is hereby further amended by inserting after section 65G the following section.

Section 65G½. Any justice of a department of the trial court who retires from or resigns his office, having attained the age of sixty-five years but not having attained the age of seventy years and who is receiving a pension at a annual rate equal to three fourths of the rate of salary payable to him at the time of his retirement or resignation may notify the chief justice for administration and management of the trial court in writing that he wishes his name to be placed upon the list of senior justices of the trial court. Said chief justice shall place the name of any such justice on the list of senior justices of the trial court.

With respect to those whose names have been placed on such list upon retirement, any retired justice or any surviving spouse of such justice shall be entitled to the same pension and all other benefits which he or his surviving spouse would have been entitled to receive if he had retired without his name having been placed on such list, notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, and a vacancy shall exist in the judicial office theretofore occupied by such retired chief justice or associate justice.

A retired justice of the trial court whose name has been placed on the list of senior justices shall be eligible to perform judicial duties until attaining the age of seventy years or until requesting, in writing, that his or her name be removed from the list of senior justices.

A retired justice of the trial court, while eligible to perform judicial duties, shall not engage in the practice of law directly or indirectly, and shall not hold any office which is incompatible with holding the office of justice of the court of which he is on the senior justice list under the provisions of Article II of Chapter VI of Part the Second of the Constitution of the Commonwealth or Article VIII of the Amendments thereto.

SECTION 3. Chapter 211A of the General Laws as appearing in the 2010 Official Edition, is hereby amended by inserting after section 16 the following section.

SECTION 16A. A retired chief justice or associate justice of the appeals court, shall become eligible to be a senior justice upon the date of retirement as provided in section sixty-five F and one half of chapter thirty two. A senior justice shall be designated and assigned by the chief justice of the appeals court to perform, during his term of eligibility, such of the duties of the office of associate justice of the appeals court as may be requested of him and which he is willing to undertake. Such senior justice may also be designated and assigned by the chief justice of the appeals court to perform, during his term of eligibility, such of the duties of judge of any lower court as may be requested of him and which he is willing to undertake provided that no such single assignment shall be for a term of longer than ninety days.

In performing the services requested of him, a senior justice shall exercise all judicial power and authority pertaining to the office in which he acts, in respect of matters as to which he is designed to act, and the fact of such service shall be stated on the records of the court, but need not be separately stated in the record or docket of any particular cause or proceeding. Service under the provisions of this section shall not be counted in determining the number of offices authorized or required for any court, on which a senior justice serves, by any applicable statute.

A senior justice so serving shall be paid by the commonwealth, in addition to the pension or retirement allowance received, a per diem differential rate of compensation equivalent to one two hundred twentieths of the balance remaining after deducting the annual pension or retirement allowance received from the current annual salary of such justice if not retired. The per diem differential rate of compensation shall be paid monthly from the Judiciary appropriated funds.

Such senior justice shall be entitled to all other benefits of a regular incumbent of the appeals court and shall be reimbursed for expenses incurred while performing such services at any place other than his place of residence. While so serving he shall be entitled to receive such staff support, clerical assistance and facilities as are customarily available to judges of the court on which he serves.

A senior justice shall be eligible for designation and assignment by the chief justice of the appeals court until he attains the age of seventy years. Thereafter senior justices may apply to the chief justice of the supreme judicial court, pursuant to section sixty five F of chapter thirty two, to continue such judicial service.

SECTION 4. Chapter 211B of the General Laws, as appearing on the 2010 Official Edition, is hereby amended by inserting after section 14 the following section:

Section 14A. A retired justice of the trial court shall become eligible to be a senior justice upon the date of retirement as provided in section sixty five G and one half of chapter thirty two. A senior justice shall be designated and assigned by the chief justice for administration and management of the trial court to perform, during his term of eligibility, such of the duties of the office of a justice of the trial court as may be requested of him and which he is willing to undertake. Such senior justice may also be designated and assigned by said chief justice of the appeals court to perform, during his term of eligibility, such of the duties of a judge of any other department of the trial court as may be requested of him and which he is willing to undertake provided that no such single assignment shall be for a term of longer than ninety days.

In performing the services requested of him, a senior justice shall exercise all judicial power and authority pertaining to the office in which he acts, in respect of matters to which he is designated to act, and the fact of such service shall be stated on the records of the court, but need not be separately stated in the record or docket of any particular cause or proceeding. Service under the provisions of this section shall not be counted in determining the number of offices authorized or required for any court, on which he serves by any applicable statute.

A senior justice so serving shall be paid by the commonwealth, in addition to the pension or retirement allowance received, a per diem differential rate of compensation equivalent to one two hundred twentieths of the balance remaining after deducting the annual pension or retirement allowance received from the current annual salary of such justice if not retired. The per diem differential rate of compensation shall be paid monthly from the Judiciary appropriated funds.

Such senior justice shall be entitled to all other benefits of a regular incumbent of the trial court and shall be reimbursed for expenses incurred while performing such services at any place other than his place of residence. While so serving he shall be entitled to receive such staff support, clerical assistance and facilities as are customarily available to judges of the court on which he serves.

A senior justice shall be eligible for designation and assignment by the chief justice for administration and management of the trial court until he attains the age of seventy years. Thereafter senior justices may apply to the chief justice of the supreme judicial court, pursuant to section sixty five G of Chapter thirty two, to continue such judicial service.

Prior to the act taking effect upon its passage, the General Court may make clerical or editorial changes to the bill and may make other amendments within the cope of this petition and are approved prior to enactment and final form by the General Court.
