The Commonwealth of Massachusetts

In the Year Two Thousand Thirteen

An Act providing for a study of the Commonwealth's job classification system by the Human Resources Division..

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1 SECTION 1. The general court finds and declares that:

2 (a) equitable compensation is a significant problem for state employees of the
3 commonwealth;

4 (b) most job specifications for state employees of the commonwealth have not been
5 updated in over twenty years;

6 (c) the starting point for equitable compensation is through a statewide classification
7 plan;

8 (d) the commonwealth is experiencing an exodus of educated young adults and skilled 9 workers and to be competitive the commonwealth must have current job descriptions which are 10 updated in order to recruit, develop, promote and retain new workers;

11 (e) the commonwealth should ensure that state employees are paid equitably through fair,
12 impartial, and up-to-date job specifications;

(f) the commonwealth should actively seek to provide equitable, impartial, just, and comparable worth for all people that it employs;

(g) equitable compensation has a significant impact on the financial welfare for individuals, families, and retirees; and

(h) equitable compensation can significantly improve the quality of life for many citizens of Massachusetts.

SECTION 2. Definitions

“Equitable compensation” means equal compensation for jobs with comparable skill, effort, responsibility, and working conditions.

“Job classification” means a system designed to create an arrangement of different types of employment based on such factors as skill, responsibility or experience, time and effort.

“Job class” means a group of positions sufficiently similar in respect to duties and responsibilities that the same descriptive title may be used to designate all positions allocated to the class, the same general entrance qualifications may be required of incumbents of positions in the class, the same general tests of fitness may be used to choose qualified employees and the same schedule of pay may be made to apply under the same or substantially the same employment conditions.

“Job specification” means the official description of the characteristic duties, responsibilities and qualifications of a job class.

“The council” means the state workforce advisory council.

“The division” means the human resources division.

SECTION 3. The human resources division shall conduct a job analysis study of positions of state employees of the executive branch of the commonwealth. The study shall be conducted to update the current job classification system, including but not limited to class titles, job specifications, organizational relationships, and job qualifications. As part of this study, the human resources division shall insure that the job classification system is free of gender and racial bias. The human resources division shall also review the effect of the job classification system on employee pension and benefits, and on the recruitment and retention of employees within the commonwealth.

SECTION 4. Said study relative to job classification shall be administered by the division subject to appropriation.

SECTION 5. The results of the study shall be reported on or before December 31, 2012. The chief human resources officer of the human resources division shall submit the results of this

46 study to the council, the chairs of the joint committee on state administration and regulatory 47 oversight, the chairs of the joint committee on labor and workforce development, the senate
