The Commonwealth of Massachusetts

In the Year Two Thousand Thirteen

An Act promoting restorative justice practices.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1 SECTION 1. Section 52 of Chapter 119 of the General Laws, as appearing in the 2010
2 Official Edition, is hereby amended by adding the following definitions:

3 “Restorative justice,” a comprehensive approach to community harm up to and including 4 criminal justice that emphasizes repairing the harm or crime caused by the event. It is a set of 5 principles that supports an offender, hereinafter referred to as the “responsible party,” to accept 6 responsibility for his/her actions and prioritizes repairing the harm done to the victim, hereinafter
7 referred to as the “impacted party,” and community caused by wrongdoing or criminal acts. As a 8 result, restorative justice seeks to engage the impacted party, the responsible party, and 9 community members in order to respond to a harm or crime, and repair the injuries caused to all 10 parties and the community.

11 “Restorative justice meeting,” includes but is not limited to responsible party-impacted 12 party conferences, restorative dialogues, family group conferences, restorative circles of 13 accountability and support, community group conferences, solution circles, peace circles, 14 restorative circles, restorative mediation. Restorative justice meetings are attended voluntarily 15 by the impacted party or impacted party’s representatives, the impacted party’s supporters, the 16 responsible party, and the responsible party’s supporters, should include community members

17 and may include a representative of the referring agency. The restorative justice meeting is 18 facilitated by a trained and impartial restorative justice facilitator. In referring participation to a 19 restorative justice process, the court or referring agency must consider the following criteria: a 20 responsible party's willingness to take responsibility; an impacted party's willingness to engage 21 the responsible party; and reasonable assurances for physical and emotional safety of all in the 22 process. Completion of the restorative justice process is marked by a constructive and 23 confidential plan of repair agreed upon by all participating parties. The plan of repair must 24 contain a specific, monitored timeline for completion and must be signed by all participants. The 25 community-based restorative justice program shall monitor the plan of repair, and must return 26 the case to the referring source if the parties do not comply by the plan of repair. Participation in 27 a community-based restorative justice program shall not be used as evidence of admission of 28 guilt in current or subsequent legal proceedings nor shall that participation be used for other 29 purposes in a court of law.

30 "Community-based restorative justice program," a program established on restorative 31 justice principles, as defined by this section, within the community in which the offense occurred 32 and which partners with police, courts, and the community to offer impartial facilitators trained 33 in restorative justice practices, as defined in this section, to facilitate the participation of 34 responsible parties and impacted parties in a restorative justice meeting.
