LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

May 30, 2017

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives,

I am filing for your consideration a bill entitled “An Act to Modernize the Commonwealth’s Administration of Unemployment Insurance.” This legislation makes targeted adjustments to current law that will allow the Department of Unemployment Assistance (DUA) to continue its work of delivering support to workers temporarily separated from employment, improving efficiencies in its administration of these benefits, and ensuring fairness for all participants in the system.

The bill makes an important correction to current eligibility provisions as they apply to workers with spouses or other family members serving in the military. Workers in military families sometimes must leave work in order to join a family member serving in the United States armed forces who has been transferred to a location out of the Commonwealth or otherwise beyond reasonable commuting distance. Current statutory language inadvertently treats a worker’s departure in these circumstances as a voluntary separation that disqualifies the worker from receiving unemployment benefits. The bill corrects this provision to make clear that Massachusetts workers will be eligible for benefits when they leave employment to follow a spouse or other family member serving in the military. The amendment brings the statute into line with the Commonwealth’s long-standing commitment to supporting military families.

We know that work-release programs for inmates serving sentences in our correctional facilities provide valuable job training that can help to reduce recidivism when inmates complete their sentences and re-join society. The bill amends current statutory language to clarify that when inmates end their employment in work-release programs—either because they complete a sentence or for other reasons—the change will not be treated as an involuntary termination entitling the inmate to unemployment benefits. This clarification will protect employers from the risk of higher unemployment assessments when they provide these important job training opportunities.

The bill supports DUA’s ongoing efforts to deliver its services more efficiently by authorizing DUA to use electronic means to communicate with claimants who have ready access to email and other forms of electronic communication. Currently 80% of claimants file initial applications for benefits electronically, but DUA is required to spend more than $1 million each year in postal charges to process claims through paper communications after initial application. A shift to email for most communications will meaningfully reduce the time required to process claims and reduce DUA’s postage costs by as much as $500,000 annually, making more funds available for language services and other important aids to effective communication with claimants.

The bill supports improved efficiency and fairness by enhancing DUA’s ability to reclaim benefits that have been obtained by fraud. Currently, the statute allows DUA to deduct only 25% of ongoing, weekly benefits to recover overpayments a claimant has obtained by fraud, although the statute places no limit on DUA’s ability to offset weekly benefits when recovering benefits that have been overpaid in error. The result is that it is currently more difficult for DUA to recover fraudulent overpayments than to recover erroneous overpayments. The proposed legislation corrects this imbalance and grants the director discretion to make appropriate charge-backs to recover overpayments resulting either from error or from fraud.

Finally, at the request of the United States Department of Labor, the bill makes minor changes that limit DUA’s ability to publish lists of employers that are delinquent in their payment of unemployment contributions. Following the proposed change, and consistent with current DUA practice, the statute will permit DUA to publicize delinquencies only when they have become a matter of public record as a result of legal proceedings.

The changes proposed in the bill will make important contributions to DUA’s continuing efforts to improve efficiency and equity in administering unemployment benefits for Massachusetts workers. I urge your prompt enactment of this legislation.

Sincerely,

Charles D. Baker,
Governor
