Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

SECTION 1. Chapter 208 of the General Laws, as appearing in the 2018 Official Edition, is hereby amended by inserting after section 34D the following section:-

Section 34E. In determining whether to make a judgment for either party to pay alimony to the other under sections 48 to 55, inclusive, the court shall consider documented evidence of abuse, as defined in chapter 209A, including, but not limited to, emotional distress resulting from that abuse, between the parties or perpetrated by either party against either party's child. For purposes of this section, documented evidence shall include, but shall not be limited to, records contained within the statewide domestic violence record keeping system. The court may consider other evidence that it considers appropriate in determining whether there is a history of abuse between the parties or perpetrated by either party against either party's child. Whenever 1 party has a criminal conviction resulting from abuse perpetrated against the other party or either party's child, a judgment for alimony to benefit the convicted party as a recipient shall be prohibited. 13
