63 to an employee or prospective employee who is experiencing or has experienced abusive 64 behavior, or whose family member is experiencing or has experienced abusive behavior, if the 65 employee or prospective employee requests an accommodation related to the abusive behavior; 66 provided, however, that an employer is not required to provide an accommodation if the 67 employer can demonstrate that the accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the 68 employer’s business. It shall also be an unlawful practice under this subsection for an employer, 69 by itself or its agent, to

70 (i) discriminate against an employee or prospective employee who requests or uses a 71 leave, or otherwise exercises rights, under this section, including, but not limited to, discharging 72 the employee, refusing to hire the prospective employee, failing to reinstate the employee to the 73 original employment status or to an equivalent position with equivalent pay and accumulated 74 seniority, retirement, fringe benefits and other applicable service credits when the leave ceases
75 taking leave under this section;

76 (ii) deny an employment opportunity to an employee or prospective employee if the 77 denial is based on the need of the employer to make a reasonable accommodation under this 78 subsection;

79 (iii) require an employee who requests an accommodation under this subsection to accept 80 an accommodation that the employee chooses not to accept;

81 (iv) require an employee or prospective employee who requests an accommodation under 82 this subsection to take leave if a reasonable accommodation may be provided that permits the 83 employee or prospective employee to perform the essential functions of the job without undue 84 hardship to the employer's business.

85 d(b) As used in this subsection, the following words shall have the following meanings
86 unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

87 "Reasonable accommodation" may include, but shall not be limited to: (i) more frequent 88 or longer paid or unpaid breaks; (ii) transfers, reassignments, or schedule changes; (iii) changing 89 a work phone number and/or email address or any other electronic or communication work 90 contact; (iv) installing or changing locks or access mechanisms; (v) assisting with 91 documentation; (vi) safety procedures; (vii) prohibiting the perpetrator of the abusive behavior
92 from being on the workplace property; or (ix) any other adjustment to a job structure, workplace 93 facility or work requirement; provided, however, that an employer shall not be required to 94 discharge or transfer an employee with more seniority or promote an employee who is not able to 95 perform the essential functions of the job with or without a reasonable accommodation.

96           “Undue hardship” shall mean an action requiring significant difficulty or expense;
97 provided, however, that the employer shall have the burden of proving undue hardship; provided 98 further, that in making a determination of undue hardship, the following factors shall be 99 considered: (i) the nature and cost of the needed accommodation; (ii) the overall financial 100 resources of the employer; (iii) the overall size of the business of the employer with respect to 101 the number of employees and the number, type and location of its facilities; and (iv) the effect on 102 expenses and resources or any other impact of the accommodation on the employer’s business.

103           (c) Upon the employer’s receipt of a request from an employee or prospective employee 104 for an accommodation under this subsection, the employee or prospective employee and the 105 employer shall engage in a timely, good faith, and interactive process to determine an effective, 106 reasonable accommodation to enable the employee or prospective employee to perform the 107 essential functions of the job.

108           (d) An employer will provide written notice to its employees of the right to be free from 109 discrimination due to status as a victim of abusive behavior, including the right to reasonable 110 accommodations related to the abusive behavior. The notice may be provided in a handbook, 111 pamphlet, or other means of notice regularly used by the employer and shall, in addition, be 112 provided to (i) new employees at or prior to the commencement of employment and (ii) an 113 employee who notifies the employer that the employee or a family member of the employee is 114 experiencing or has experienced abusive behavior not more than five days after such notification.

115           (e) Subject to appropriation, the commission shall develop courses of instruction and 116 conduct public education efforts as necessary to inform employers, employees and employment
117 agencies

118 about the rights and responsibilities established under this subsection not more than 180 119 days after the appropriation.

120 (f) This subsection shall not be construed to preempt, limit, diminish, or otherwise affect 121 any other law relating to abusive behavior, including, but not limited to, leave for victims of 122 abusive behavior under section 52E of chapter 149.

123 (g) An employer may require any employee or prospective employee requesting an 124 accommodation under this subsection to provide documentation evidencing that the employee, 125 the prospective employee, or a family member of the employee or the prospective employee is 126 experiencing or has experienced abusive behavior; provided, however, an employer shall not 127 require the employee or prospective employee to show evidence of an arrest, conviction, or other 128 law enforcement documentation for such abusive behavior. The employee or prospective 129 employee shall provide such documentation to the employer within a reasonable period after the 130 employer requests such documentation. The employee or prospective employee shall satisfy this 131 documentation requirement by providing any one of the following documents to the employer, 132 and it shall be the choice of the employee or prospective employee which type of documentation
133 to provide. An employer may not require, but may consider, documentation concerning the type, 134 scope or duration of the reasonable accommodation. The employer must provide a reasonable 135 accommodation in a timely manner and may not delay providing reasonable accommodation 136 until the documentation is provided. The provision of any documentation provided to an 137 employer under this paragraph does not waive or diminish the confidential or privileged nature 138 of communications between a victim of abusive behavior and one or more individuals named in 139 this paragraph. Any documentation provided to an employer under this paragraph may be 140 maintained by the employer in an employee file but only for as long as required for the employer

141 to make a determination as to whether the employee is entitled to a reasonable accommodation 142 under this paragraph.
