Section 116. Charges after a trial offer, required disclosures

a) Trial offer disclosures. A seller may not make a trial offer to a consumer, or impose a financial obligation on the consumer as a result of the consumer's acceptance of a trial offer, unless:

1) Any additional financial obligations that may be incurred as a result of accepting the trial offer;

2) Identification of all goods or services, or enrollments in a membership, subscription or service contract that the consumer will receive or for which the consumer will incur a financial obligation as a result of accepting the trial offer;

3) The cost to the consumer of any financial obligation the consumer will incur if the consumer accepts the trial offer, including any fees or charges;

4) A statement, if applicable, that by accepting the trial offer, the consumer will become obligated for additional goods or services, or enrollment in a membership, subscription or service contract unless the consumer takes affirmative action to cancel the trial offer;

49 agreement. The means for cancellation provided by the seller, shall at a minimum, enable the 50 consumer to cancel the trial offer by calling a toll-free telephone number and, if the offer was not
51 accepted by telephone, to cancel in a manner substantially similar to that by which the consumer
52 accepted the trial offer, including but not limited to, electronic email address, website, postal

57 this section.

58 d) Additional notice to consumer. A seller whose trial offer exceeds thirty (30)
59 calendar days must provide additional notice to the consumer within no more than ten (10) and 60 no fewer than five (5) calendar days prior to the date upon which the consumer will incur an 61 additional financial obligation as a result of accepting the offer. The notification shall include 62 the calendar date on which the consumer will be charged for additional goods or services or for 63 automatic renewal. The notification shall be provided in a manner substantially similar to that by 64 which the consumer accepted the trial offer and shall clearly and conspicuously disclose the 65 means by which the consumer may cancel the offer. The means of cancellation must conform to 66 subsection (b) of this section.

67 e) Burden on seller. The seller has the burden of proving that the consumer
68 expressly agreed to this arrangement and that the required notices were provided within the time 69 limits set forth.

f) “Data pass” prohibition. A seller may not cause a consumer to incur a financial obligation to another seller as a result of accepting a trial offer unless:

i) The consumer gives affirmative consent to the seller at the time the consumer accepts the trial offer allowing the seller to provide the consumer’s billing information to a seller other than the seller making the trial offer. Such affirmative consent shall conform to subsection (c) of this section.

g) Violation. Any violation of this section shall constitute an unfair or deceptive act or practice in violation of Chapter 93A.
