Greetings:

I am pleased to share the Division of Administrative Law Appeals' (DALA) 2025 Annual Report, which highlights the work of our General Jurisdiction Unit (GJU) and Bureau of Special Education Appeals (BSEA). Though a small agency, DALA plays an important role in state government by resolving disputes that directly impact the lives, livelihoods, and rights of individuals, families, and businesses across the Commonwealth.

The GJU provides a fair, independent, and accessible forum for resolving a wide range of administrative disputes. Building on progress from prior years, the GJU in 2025 resolved cases more swiftly and effectively – reducing the average case-resolution time by more than 100 days, and resolving 82 more cases than were filed. The GJU also launched initiatives to increase access to justice, and to help self-represented parties and the public better understand and navigate proceedings before the agency.

The BSEA continued to serve families and school districts through impartial mediations, due process hearings, and facilitated team meetings. In addition to handling over 1,000 mediation requests, over 270 facilitation requests, and nearly 430 hearing requests, the BSEA led advanced workshops at a national conference, reflecting its longstanding leadership in special education dispute resolution, both in Massachusetts and nationally.

A special thanks to Jennifer Ngo, Reece Erlichman, James Rooney, Myrto Flessas, Eric Tennen, Marguerite Mitchell, and Becca Stone for their contributions to this report.

Sincerely,

Thomas E. Bocian
Chief Administrative Magistrate

ABOUT DALA: MISSION AND STRUCTURE

The Division of Administrative Law Appeals (DALA) is a quasi-judicial agency that hears and resolves challenges to decisions made by Massachusetts state agencies, as well as disputes among parents, school districts, private schools, and state educational agencies.

At the heart of DALA's mission is a commitment to protecting the due process rights of everyone who appears before the agency. In support of that mission, DALA's core objectives are to:

- Provide a neutral forum for the fair, equitable, and independent resolution of disputes.
- Ensure full and meaningful access for all individuals and organizations who come before the agency.
- Treat all participants with fairness, dignity, and respect throughout the mediation, facilitation, and hearing processes.
- Issue clear, well-reasoned decisions based solely on the facts and applicable law.

DALA is comprised of two units: the General Jurisdiction Unit and the Bureau of Special Education Appeals. At the end of 2025, DALA had 34 employees.

THE GENERAL JURISDICTION UNIT

The General Jurisdiction Unit (GJU) hears challenges to decisions made by other state agencies. Cases reach the GJU by two means:

- By statute, where one requires that certain types of cases be heard at DALA; and
- By agency request, upon the approval of DALA's Chief Administrative Magistrate and the Secretary of Administration and Finance.

The GJU currently hears matters from approximately 20 state agencies and boards, including the Contributory Retirement Appeal Board,¹ the Board of Registration in Medicine, the Department of Public Health, the Department of Early Education and Care, and the Fair Labor Division of the Attorney General’s Office. The GJU also hears appeals from decisions issued by specially created municipal permitting districts, which consolidate multiple local permits into a single decision for designated “priority development sites.” Thus, to the extent that Massachusetts has a “central administrative panel,” the GJU fills that role.

This centralized structure benefits the Commonwealth in several important ways. It ensures that cases are handled by experienced adjudicators using consistent procedures, and it reduces the need for individual agencies to staff and manage their own hearings. This model also fosters trust in government by providing a neutral forum for appeals of agency decisions, reinforcing the fairness and transparency of the process for all parties involved. Through this consolidated approach, the Commonwealth promotes fairness, efficiency, and responsible use of public resources.

At the end of 2025, the GJU had a team of ten magistrates, three administrative staff, and a fiscal manager.

A. The Adjudicatory Process

Although DALA’s name refers to “appeals,” the GJU functions more like a trial court. Parties may file motions, conduct discovery, subpoena evidence, and participate in evidentiary hearings where they may present witnesses and other relevant evidence.

The individual, agency, or organization that initiates a case before the GJU is referred to as the petitioner, which is similar to a plaintiff in a civil lawsuit. The opposing party, on the other hand, is deemed the respondent, which is analogous to a defendant in civil litigation.

Each case is assigned to an impartial administrative magistrate, who oversees the proceedings—from holding prehearing conferences and resolving motions, to managing discovery, conducting the evidentiary hearing, and issuing the written decision. The magistrate’s final decision is binding on the parties and, depending on the case type, the decision may be appealed to another agency or to the Massachusetts Superior Court.²

Cases before the GJU may resolve in several ways. Appeals may be dismissed on procedural grounds, such as a failure to meet a statutory filing deadline, to state a claim, or to establish jurisdiction. Others may be resolved through summary decision, which—like summary judgment in civil litigation—is appropriate when there are no genuine issues of material fact and the case can be decided as a matter of law. If a case proceeds to a full evidentiary hearing, the assigned magistrate will issue a written decision based on the evidence presented and the applicable law. In still other cases, the parties reach a settlement, or the petitioner may voluntarily withdraw the appeal.

The chart below shows how cases were resolved in 2025. Approximately 51% of the GJU’s cases were resolved through dismissals, while 19% were withdrawn and 19% were resolved through a final decision. Summary decisions, meanwhile, accounted for 5% of the resolved cases.³ Recommended decisions and settlements between the parties each accounted for approximately 3% of the cases that were resolved.

² In certain types of cases, the magistrate issues a recommended decision to the agency whose action is being appealed. The agency then reviews the recommendation and issues the final, binding decision.

³ DALA’s enabling statute requires it to report on the number of “simplified hearings” that it holds each year. M.G.L. ch. 7, § 4H. The Standard Rules of Adjudicatory Practice and Procedure, 801 CMR 1.00, et seq., do not use that term. Construing a “simplified hearing” of a matter to mean resolution through the expedited (and simplified) means of the summary-decision process, the GJU reports that it resolved 35 cases in that manner in 2025.

B. 2025 in Review

1. Caseload Overview

In 2025, the GJU received 667 new cases. These matters range in complexity, from straightforward disputes that may be resolved quickly to highly complex cases that require expert testimony, lengthy hearings, and extensive legal briefing.

As in past years, the majority of new cases (76.31%) related to public employees' pensions, such as challenges to the calculation of an individual's pension or the denial of an application for a disability retirement. The second largest category of new cases (7.05%) related to determinations made at the Department of Early Education and Care, such as challenges to whether an individual was suitable to operate a daycare.

2. Resolving Cases More Quickly

DALA remains committed to resolving cases as efficiently as possible, particularly given the nature of the matters the GJU handles. These cases often have a direct impact on people’s lives and on business operations. Magistrates may be asked to decide, for example, whether a public employee is entitled to a public pension, whether a physician will be allowed to retain their medical license, or whether a business may continue operating. Beyond individual outcomes, the GJU’s decisions shape public expectations, influence agency practices, and guide legal compliance, often helping to prevent future disputes.

In 2025, the GJU continued to build upon prior efforts to strengthen efficiency, increasing the rate at which cases were resolved and reducing the number of pending matters. Specifically, in 2025, the GJU:

- Resolved 68% of the cases that had been pending since 2021 or earlier.
- Reduced the average case-resolution time by more than 100 days.
- Reduced the median case-resolution time by more than 180 days.
- Ended the year with 21.5% fewer pending cases than at the start of the year.

The GJU also kept pace with new filings, and in fact exceeded them:

- It outpaced new case filings, resolving 749 cases—82 more than were filed in 2025.
- And it resolved 45% of the cases that were filed in 2025.

Appendix A provides a breakdown of all cases closed in 2025 by case type. Appendix B lists the subset of cases that were both filed and resolved in 2025, also categorized by case type. And Appendix C lists the cases that were filed in 2025, with the date that they were opened, the date on which they were resolved (if applicable), and the type of disposition.

C. Additional Accomplishments and Highlights

1. Launching a New Pro Bono Program to Bring Representation to Individuals Who Appear Before the GJU But Cannot Afford Counsel

In 2025, DALA became the first state adjudicatory agency in Massachusetts to launch a pro bono program to connect volunteer lawyers with individuals who appear before the agency and want, but cannot afford, counsel to represent them. The program applies to cases involving professional licensure, public pensions, public health, and violations of wage and hour laws. It is expected to strengthen access to justice for individuals, while at the same time providing valuable litigation experience, in a confined time period, for the attorneys who volunteer. And, to facilitate attorney participation, it is designed to be flexible: the lawyers who volunteer may choose the types of cases they want to take and they are able to select specific cases from a list of available opportunities. In addition to representing individuals directly, attorneys may also mentor other attorneys or volunteer on the helpline for a day. With DALA having promoted the program (among other ways) on its own website and that of Mass Pro Bono, it already has generated interest from lawyers within Massachusetts. We are pleased to have begun to pair parties with counsel.

2. Enhancing Resources for Self-Represented Litigants and Digital Access

DALA is committed to ensuring that everyone can meaningfully participate in its proceedings. In furtherance of this commitment, the GJU replaced its existing Pro Se Guide with an updated and expanded version in 2025. Designed to help self-represented litigants navigate GJU proceedings confidently and effectively, the guide explains the entire process – from filing an appeal and serving documents, to participating in hearings and understanding final decisions – in clear, accessible language. For example, it outlines procedural requirements, deadlines, and best practices for communication, evidence, and decorum; it provides instructions for filing documents and requesting accommodations; and it includes an extensive glossary of legal terms.

In addition, DALA continued partnering with other state agencies on a multi-year procurement for an integrated docket system that promises to improve internal case management at the agency and to provide new, public-facing features that will allow litigants and representatives to file documents and view case dockets online. This expanded functionality is expected to facilitate the ways in which the public and litigants can interact with the agency.

THE BUREAU OF SPECIAL EDUCATION APPEALS

The Bureau of Special Education Appeals (BSEA) conducts mediations, hearings, and facilitated meetings to resolve disputes among parents, school districts, private schools, and state agencies. The BSEA derives its authority from both federal law (the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, “IDEA”) and Massachusetts law (Chapter 71B of the Massachusetts General Laws, “Chapter 71B”).

A parent⁴ or a school district may request a mediation or hearing on any matter concerning the eligibility, evaluation, placement, or Individualized Education Program (IEP) of, or the provision of special education or procedural protections to, students with disabilities, in accordance with state and federal law. In addition, a parent may request a hearing on issues involving the denial of a free appropriate public education guaranteed by Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

Mediations, hearings, and facilitated meetings are conducted by impartial and specially trained mediators and hearing officers. The BSEA is comprised of six hearing officers (all of whom are attorneys), six mediators, a coordinator of mediation, an IEP Team meeting facilitator, a scheduling coordinator, four administrative staff, a fiscal manager, and a director.

The BSEA is federally funded through a grant managed by the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE). In 2010, the Legislature transferred the BSEA to DALA from DESE to ensure independence from any educational agency that could be a party to, or interested in, the matters that come before the BSEA. See Chapter 131 of the Acts of 2010.

A. Overview and 2025 Activity

In Massachusetts, a public school district is responsible for developing an IEP for a student with a disability, who is found eligible pursuant to the IDEA or Chapter 71B. An IEP is a “road map” and “contract,” which is prepared by an interdisciplinary team, and which sets forth the goals, objectives, services, placement, and accommodations necessary to provide an eligible student with a free appropriate public education (FAPE) in the least restrictive environment.

⁴ As used in this report, “parent” refers to the father, mother, foster parent, or legal guardian of a child; a person acting as a parent of a child; or an educational surrogate parent appointed in accordance with federal law.

If the parent of a student rejects or does not respond to a proposed IEP, the school must notify the BSEA. The BSEA then sends a packet of information to the parents and school district notifying them of their dispute resolution options, including mediation and a due process hearing. Parents and school districts are not required to request a BSEA mediation or hearing. After receiving this packet, therefore, the parents and school district may or may not contact the BSEA to request mediation or file a written request for a hearing.

In most instances involving a rejected IEP, the families and school districts work collaboratively to resolve the rejections. As a result, only a small percentage of the rejected IEPs that the BSEA receives ultimately lead to a mediation, settlement conference, or full evidentiary hearing. If the BSEA receives no request to schedule a mediation or hearing within three months of sending the packet of information, the matter is closed.

1. Rejected IEPs

During fiscal year 2025, the BSEA received approximately 14,345 notifications of rejected IEPs from public school districts across Massachusetts.⁵ As required, the BSEA mailed informational packets to parents outlining their due process rights and dispute resolution options.⁶ The BSEA was not contacted with respect to the remaining, rejected IEPs.

2. Mediations

a. How Mediation Works: A Brief Overview

A parent or school district may contact the BSEA to request mediation. As discussed above, parties often learn about this option through the informational IEP packets that the BSEA sends out. They also may learn about mediation at the BSEA in other ways, such as by communicating with the school district or with another parent, by attending one of the BSEA's informational sessions, or by visiting our website.

When the BSEA receives a mediation request, a mediator gathers relevant information and shares the request with the other party. If both parties—the school district and the parent—agree to mediate, they sign a written consent to mediate. The mediator then works with them to schedule the session, which may be held remotely or in person, depending on their preference. During the mediation, the mediator facilitates a collaborative process to help the parties reach a mutually acceptable, signed agreement.

⁵ As noted in previous reports, pursuant to federal reporting requirements, the BSEA keeps its statistics by fiscal year.

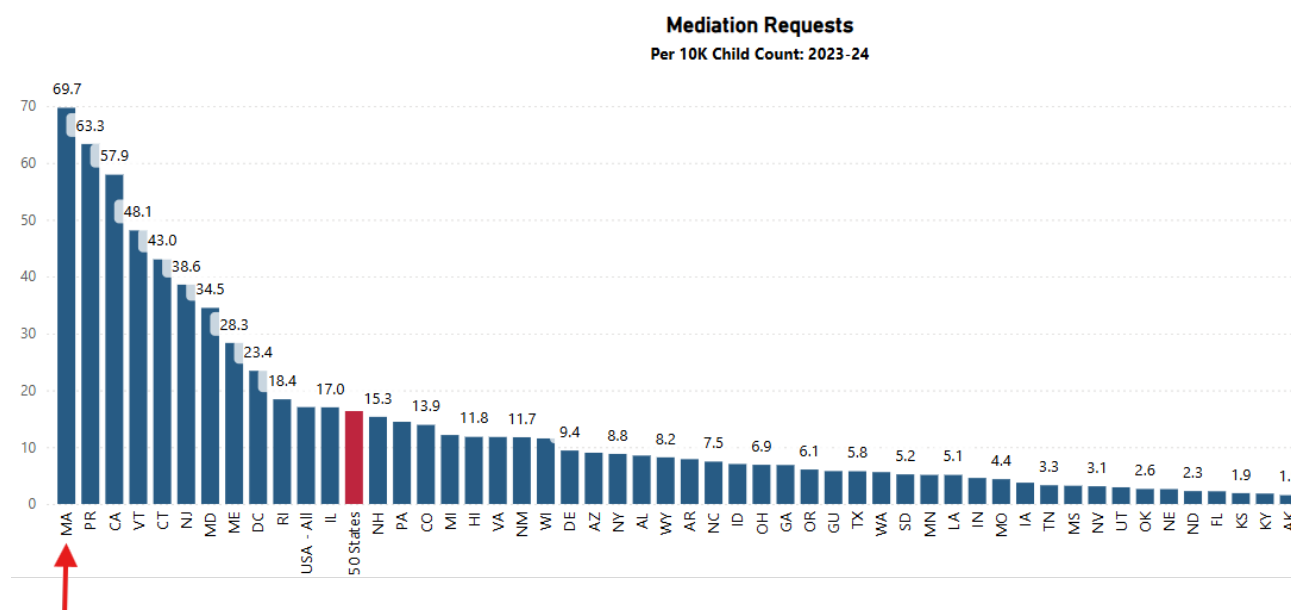

⁶ In 1,525 instances, the BSEA received a request for mediation or hearing, as discussed further below.

b. Mediation Requests and Resolutions

The BSEA continued to deliver high quality mediation services in 2025. In Fiscal Year 2025, the BSEA received 1,099 mediation requests and conducted 670 mediations, including some that had been requested in Fiscal Year 2024. Of the 1,099 requests, 419 did not proceed during Fiscal Year 2025—either because a party declined mediation or because the request was withdrawn. At the end of Fiscal Year 2025, 132 requests remained pending. All of these cases have now been closed either through mediation or a party withdrawing from the mediation process. As indicated in Figure 3, the BSEA receives more requests for mediation, per student count, than any other state.

⁷ Figures 3 and 4 reflect data from the 2023-2024 school year, which is the most recent year for which the Center for Appropriate Dispute Resolution in Special Education (CADRE) has published information. The BSEA's data for 2025 is consistent with that in Figures 3 and 4. Further, for readability, the charts have been truncated to exclude states with the fewest mediation requests and lowest agreement rates.

Of the 670 mediations the BSEA conducted, 556 (83%) resulted in agreements between parents and school districts. Further, as shown in Figure 4, the BSEA mediators have one of the highest agreement rates in the nation, well above the national average.

3. Due Process Hearings and Settlement Conferences

a. Formal Resolution of Special Education Disputes

In addition to mediation, parents and school districts may request that the BSEA conduct a due process hearing. At the BSEA, this is a formal administrative adjudicatory proceeding in which parties present evidence – testimony under oath and documents – to an impartial hearing officer to resolve the disputed issues. The hearing officer audio records the hearing and/or uses a court stenographer to create a transcript. Upon request, the BSEA issues subpoenas and provides interpreters, translators, and transcripts at no cost to the parties.

A hearing may address disputes involving the eligibility, evaluation, placement, or IEP of, or the provision of special education or procedural protections of state and federal law to, students with disabilities. The BSEA's jurisdiction in these matters extends to parents, students, public school districts, private schools, and state agencies throughout Massachusetts.

Each matter is assigned to an impartial hearing officer who oversees the case, from conducting the prehearing conferences to issuing the final decision. When a matter proceeds to a full evidentiary hearing, the hearing officer presides over the hearing, reviews the evidence presented, and issues a binding, written decision based on relevant state and federal law. A party may appeal the decision to the Massachusetts Superior Court or the United States District Court within 90 days of its issuance.

b. Resolution of Hearing Requests in 2025

Most hearing requests filed with the BSEA resolve before reaching a full hearing. In some cases, the parties withdraw their requests for a hearing. In others, the parties reach a settlement, either outside the BSEA process or through a BSEA prehearing conference, mediation, or settlement conference. Cases that are not resolved through one of these avenues proceed to either a dispositive ruling or a full evidentiary hearing, after which the hearing officer issues a decision on the merits.

In 2025, the BSEA received 426 hearing requests. BSEA hearing officers conducted 29 full hearings, resulting in 29 decisions. Hearing officers also issued 100 substantive written rulings in 2025.

Additionally, the BSEA held settlement conferences in 39 cases that were filed for hearing in 2025. In 31 of these conferences (79%), the parties reached a settlement.

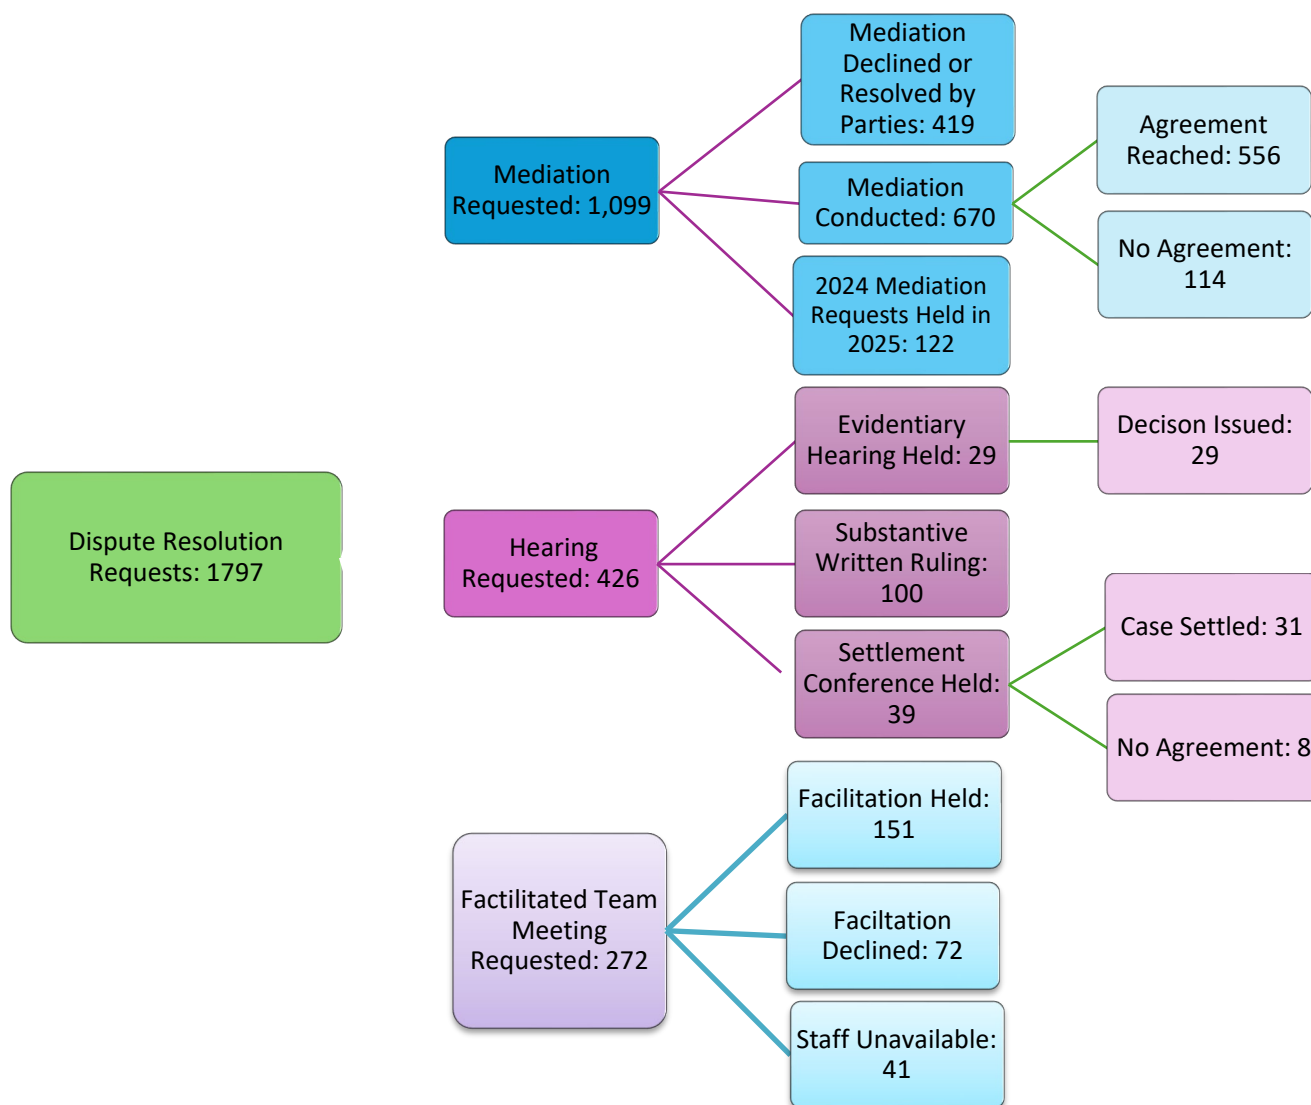

4. Facilitated Team Meetings

To support early dispute resolution and keep conflicts from escalating, the BSEA also provides facilitators for IEP and 504 Accommodation Plan team meetings. An IEP team meeting is a required meeting to discuss educational programming and support for a student with disabilities. A 504 Accommodation Plan is a formal plan developed under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act to ensure that a student with a disability has equal access to education by providing necessary accommodations and support. These meetings include both school staff and the student's parents.

The BSEA offers facilitators to attend these meetings and support clear and effective team communication and productivity. The BSEA provides this service at no cost to the parties.

The BSEA received 272 requests for facilitated meetings and conducted 151 facilitations in 2025, with approximately 41 requests declined due to staff being unavailable. Previously, BSEA mediators and the Coordinator of Mediation conducted all facilitations. Due to steadily growing demand for the BSEA's services, the unit hired a full-time facilitator, who joined the BSEA in April 2025.

⁸ The 670 mediations held in 2025 include some that had been requested in 2024.

B. Expertise, National Recognition, and Efficiency

In 2025, BSEA mediators were selected to present at the triannual national Center for Appropriate Dispute Resolution in Special Education (CADRE) conference, where they led both an advanced mediation workshop and an advanced facilitation workshop for colleagues from across the country. Their presentations reflected the nationally recognized depth of expertise and practical experience within the BSEA's dispute resolution program.

With the addition of a new full-time facilitator, the BSEA has successfully met the growing demand for facilitated team meetings, and the program continues to expand in both reach and popularity.

Further, in 2025 the BSEA issued a Standing Order regarding Decorum relating to the conduct of participants in due process hearings. This Standing Order was issued to ensure the orderly presentation of evidence and administrative efficiency, and to promote fairness and civility in the conduct of due process hearings.

In addition, in preparation for an upcoming on-site IDEA Part B Differentiated Monitoring and Support (DMS) review, the BSEA completed a robust document submission to the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP).
