Overview of the Massachusetts Women Veterans Network

In recognition of the unique needs of women veterans, Congress established the Center for Women Veterans within the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) in 1994. This initiative aimed to ensure that women veterans would receive benefits and services equal to those of their male counterparts. In 1997, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts created the Women Veterans Network (WVN) to provide additional support to women veterans through programming, connections to resources, and advocacy. Under the Executive Office of Veterans Services (EOVS), the WVN continues to collaborate with service organizations, veteran advocates, the VA, and other organizations to raise awareness of women veterans' issues in Massachusetts.

The mission of the WVN is to empower women veterans by ensuring their voices are heard, their contributions acknowledged, and their well-being enhanced through education, advocacy, and collaboration. The vision is to foster an environment that promotes the success and well-being of women veterans in all aspects of their lives, including career development, personal growth, and overall fulfillment. The WVN's values are Advocacy, Support, Progressiveness, Inclusion, Respect, and Equity (ASPIRE).

The WVN offers programming to women veterans that includes the annual Women Veterans Network Conference, the Women Veterans Recognition Luncheon, the Deborah Sampson Award Ceremony, and additional series focused on the whole veteran in areas such as creative expression, education, self-care, physical activity, life transitions, and social connection. These events allow women veterans to build a sense of camaraderie with fellow women veterans and with community service providers.

Additionally, the WVN visits communities across the state to identify women veterans and share resources and support services with them and their loved ones. This outreach would not be possible without continued partnerships with federal, state, and local government stakeholders, as well as community organizations. These partnerships and direct veteran outreach inform the work of the WVN and EOVS and have resulted in improved advocacy for resources and expanded programming.

The Women Veterans Network Collaborative, an evolution of the former Women Veterans Network Steering Committee, continued to meet quarterly, with special meetings for members who assisted in planning the WVN's major events. Twenty-three members served on the Collaborative this year. Membership is diverse across race and ethnicity, age, military branch, and conflict era. In addition to providing advocacy and guidance, members volunteered at the annual Women Veterans Network Conference, the Women Veterans Recognition Luncheon, and the Deborah Sampson Award Ceremony.

The WVN also distributes a monthly email newsletter to all members. As of October 2026, total membership is 3,337, compared with 3,143 in October 2025, an increase of 194 members, including women veterans and allies.

Massachusetts Women Veteran Demographics

Women veterans are the fastest growing demographic of veterans nationally, numbering more than 2.1 million. From fiscal year 2000 to 2023, the percentage of women veterans grew from 6.3% to 11.3% with a projection of 17.2% by 2043 of all living veterans.1[1] U.S. Veterans Administration estimates that there are 22,767 female veterans residing in Massachusetts, making up approximately 8.61% of the total veteran population of the state. Women veterans are overwhelmingly white, making up 81.29 % of the female veteran population. The top three most densely populated counties of women veteran residents are Middlesex, Worcester, and Hampden, respectively. [2]

Event and Outreach Highlights

Since November 2025, the Women Veterans Network (WVN) has hosted 19 events, including new programming added in response to the Summer 2025 WVN Program Interest Survey, which gathered data on veterans' interests, needs, and availability. The survey was conducted again in Summer 2026 to identify trends over time and inform more comprehensive programming for FY27.

A subcommittee of Women Veterans Network Collaborative members met several times to develop a shared theme for the WVN's three major spring 2026 events: the Women Veterans Recognition Luncheon, the Annual Conference, and the Deborah Sampson Award Ceremony. The theme, "Empowering Her Voice, Honoring Her Service," encouraged women veterans to share their stories, advocate for themselves, prioritize their well-being, and value their contributions to the military.

On March 14, 2026, the WVN hosted the Women Veterans Recognition Luncheon at the Andover Country Club. The event drew more than 100 women veterans and guests. The keynote address was delivered by Lorrena Black, U.S. Army veteran and Founder and CEO of She Served LLC, who shared her perspective on impostor phenomenon and offered tools for those who experience it.

The 18th Annual Women Veterans Network Conference was held on May 16, 2026, in Norwood, Massachusetts. The conference drew more than 200 attendees (guests, speakers, presenters, and vendors), up from more than 150 last year, along with more than 25 volunteers. More than 45 exhibitors provided information about services and benefits available to women veterans. The opening ceremony included remarks from Secretary Eric Goralnick and Deputy Secretary Andrea Gayle-Bennett and a keynote address by Jody Sloane, U.S. Coast Guard veteran. The afternoon keynote speaker was Zaneta Adams, J.D., U.S. Army veteran. The conference also featured nine breakout sessions:

Session 1: Self-defense Basics with the Norwood Police Department

Session 2: Lead, Launch, and Own It: A Startup Playbook for Women Veterans with Lisa Ducharme, USAF (Ret.), Executive Director for the Massachusetts Veterans Chamber of Commerce

Session 3: VA-specific Health Care Advocacy with VA Women Veteran Program Managers Cheryl Coviello, LICSW, Christine Dunn, LICSW, and Carolyn Mason Wholley, LICSW

Session 4: Self-advocacy with Zaneta Adams, J.D.

Session 5: Just Breathe with Stacy Novia, Psalm Wellness

Session 6: Perimenopause and Menopause with VA Women Veteran Program Manager Cheryl Coviello, LICSW

Session 7: Identity Theft and Scam Prevention with Sue Katz, Financial Wellness Coach – WealthTrek, Hanscom Federal Credit Union

Session 8: Your Life is a Blank Canvas. Let's be Creative! with Mary-dith Tuitt, Chair of the Massachusetts Commission on Status of Women, 2024 Deborah Sampson Award Recipient

Session 9: From Risk to Resilience: Promoting Lethal Means Safety for Women Veterans with Lynette Gabrilla, Deputy Chief Engagement Officer for Peer Support and Outreach and Nicole Darden, Field Operations Supervisor, EOVS SAVE Team

Lastly, the WVN hosted the 21st Annual Deborah Sampson Award Ceremony on June 11, 2026, at the Massachusetts State House. This year, 13 women veterans were nominated. The 2026 recipient of the Deborah Sampson Award was Truc DeCoste, an Air Force veteran and employee of the Office of the Veterans Advocate (OVA). The ceremony featured remarks from Lieutenant Governor Kimberley Driscoll, Executive Office of Veterans Services Secretary Eric Goralnick, Deputy Secretary Andrea Gayle-Bennett, and Ashley Booker, the 2025 Deborah Sampson Award recipient.

The WVN also conducted outreach (tabling) at 38 events. During tabling, the WVN provides women veterans with information about programs, benefits, and services through direct engagement, conversations, and brochures. Since more hosted events were added this year, tabling focused on events with strong attendance among women veterans. The WVN also participates in several statewide collaboratives that share veteran information and advocate for veteran issues.

Women Veterans Benefits Documents

The WVN continues to engage women veterans throughout the Commonwealth. The WVN has created multiple documents to outline benefits, increase awareness of services, and offer opportunities to join the network. Below is a summary of the documents developed by the WVN, with examples included in the addenda.

A monthly electronic newsletter featuring upcoming events and resources is emailed to all WVN members. Archives of past newsletters are available on the WVN website (https://mass.gov/wvn).

The WVN produced a brochure that shares the mission, vision, and history of the WVN, as well as information about how to join the network. The brochure includes a phone number, email address, QR code, and website (Addendum A).

The WVN offers an online application to join the network. The application is open to all women veterans and allies and is available on the WVN website (Addendum B).

The WVN also offers an online application to join the Women Veterans Network Collaborative, an advisory council of women veterans that provides guidance and leadership for the WVN. The application is available to women veterans interested in serving a one-year term (Addendum C). A renewal application is available for members who choose to return the following year (Addendum D).

The WVN manages the nomination application for the Deborah Sampson Award, which honors an exemplary woman veteran each June. The application is available on the WVN website (Addendum E).

The Massachusetts Women Veterans Network website offers information for women veterans, state and federal agencies, community partners, and other stakeholders. It includes a resources section, an events section with registration links and upcoming tabling events, updates, and the WVN newsletter archives. The website is available at https://mass.gov/wvn.

Upcoming In-person Events

March 2027: Annual Women Veterans Recognition Luncheon
This event provides a heartwarming tribute to the brave women of Massachusetts who have served and includes a keynote speaker and opening ceremony.

May or June 2027: WVN Annual Conference
The annual conference provides women veterans with an opportunity to meet, network, and learn about updates from the Executive Office of Veterans Services. A typical conference includes an opening ceremony, afternoon guest speakers, multiple breakout sessions, and opportunities for women veterans to build community. The conference often hosts a large number of exhibitors from the veteran community, including the United States Department of Veteran Affairs, various state programs, non-profit organizations, and veteran community groups. The conference is staffed by EOVS employees and attracts a contingent of volunteers. The conference is accessible to all women veterans and includes a virtual option.

June 2027: Deborah Sampson Award Ceremony
Hosted in Memorial Hall at the Massachusetts State House, this annual award ceremony pays homage to those who exemplify the spirit of Deborah Sampson. Named after the revolutionary war hero who disguised herself as a man to fight for her country, this ceremony celebrates individuals who embody her indomitable spirit, resilience, and dedication to service. The recipient of this esteemed award is recognized for their extraordinary contributions and selfless acts of service. From military heroes to community champions, these individuals inspire others with their unwavering commitment to making a difference. The ceremony includes the presentation of the Deborah Sampson Award, captivating stories of bravery and sacrifice, and the commemoration of the legacy of one of America's first female soldiers.
