Adjournment in Memory of Kevin McNicholas, Dean of the State House Press Corp

The Senator from Worcester and Norfolk, Mr. Richard T. Moore, moves that when the Senate adjourns today, it adjourn in memory of Kevin McNicholas, Dean of the State House Press Corps.

An observer of every governor and legislator since the Sargent Administration, Mr. McNicholas worked as a contract reporter for stations across Massachusetts. He also covered 11 national political conventions, the courts, Boston City Hall, the school busing crisis, and the 1976 Tall Ships visit.

He was known for his pleasant demeanor yet penetrating questions — a skill remarked on not just by politicians but also the oncologist who treated him since his diagnosis in September with an aggressive form of bladder cancer.

A resident of Boston, Mr. McNicholas grew up in Wakefield after he and his sister were adopted by a restaurant manager and a schoolteacher. He attended Northeastern University and was slated to graduate in 1973 when he found he was lacking a required English course. It meant he missed the pomp and circumstance of the usual graduation ceremonies.

Mr. McNicholas broke into reporting through a Northeastern co-op stint at WHDH-TV. After working as a news writer and assignment editor, he decided his physical features were better suited for radio and started working at the State House with a boost from longtime columnist Wendell Woodman.

His career took him across the gubernatorial spectrum, covering Democrats such as Michael Dukakis and Republicans William F. Weld and Mitt Romney. On the national front, he recalled covering the 1976 political conventions in New York City and Kansas City, Missouri.

Mr. McNicholas, 61, died November 25, 2010 at Massachusetts General Hospital. He leaves his sister, Ann Duffy of Wakefield, and her husband and their two children.

Accordingly, as a mark of respect to the memory of Kevin McNicholas, at seven minutes past eleven o'clock A.M. on motion of Mr. Knapik, the Senate adjourned to meet again on Thursday next at eleven o'clock A.M.
