Moment of Silence.

The Chair (Mr. Collins), the members, guests and staff stood in a moment of silence and reflection to the memory of Dr. Bernard Lown.

Adjournment in Memory of Dr. Bernard Lown.

The Senator from Middlesex and Norfolk, Ms. Creem, presented a motion that when the Senate adjourns today, it adjourn in memory of Dr. Bernard Lown of Newton, who passed away on February 16, 2021 at the age of 99.

The son of Nisson Lown and Bella (Grossbard) Lown, Bernard was born in Utena, Lithuania on June 7, 1921. His family emigrated to Maine in 1935, where Bernard graduated from Lewiston High School. He went on to earn his Bachelor of Arts degree in zoology from the University of Maine and his medical degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1945.

Bernard married Louise Lown in 1946 and then moved to New York where he completed an internship and residency in New York City. Upon completion of his medical residency, the couple moved to the Boston area in 1950, settling in Newton.

Dr. Lown taught and conducted cardiac research at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and Harvard Medical School. He was a pioneer in cardiac medical research, and in 1962 invented the first effective heart defibrillator, a cardioverter, a life-saving technique for cardiac resuscitation. This was a significant medical breakthrough which made open-heart surgery possible.

In addition to being a renowned cardiologist, Dr Lown was an anti-war activist interested in social justice. In 1980 he co-founded an international physician’s group, International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War, raising public awareness of the catastrophic consequences of atomic warfare. He campaigned against nuclear war, and in 1985 he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize along with his Russian co-founder. Later he also received UNESCO’s Peace Education prize.

Dr. Lown was an innovator who wanted developing nations to benefit from his cardiac research. He founded Asia SatelLife USA, a Boston nonprofit, that launched a communications satellite in 1991 to help provide online medical training and information to health care workers and doctors in Asia and Africa.

He was the author of several books, including a memoir, “The Lost Art of Healing” (1996) and more than 400 research articles in medical journals. In 2000 he retired from the Harvard School of Public Health, but continued to direct the Lown Cardiovascular Center in Brookline, which emphasized noninvasive and preventative treatments, and cardiac research.

Dr. Lown, predeceased by his wife of 73 years, Louise Lown, is survived by his children and their spouses, Frederic and Barbara Lown, Anne Lown and Warren Green and Naomi Lown and Marvin Lewiton; grandchildren Melanie Lown, Zackary Lown, Emma Lown, Ariel Lewiton and Rachael Lewiton; and a great grandchild, Ezra Moore.

Dr. Lown will be fondly remembered by the medical community, the Newton community and all those who were fortunate to have known him.

Accordingly, as a mark of respect to the memory of Dr. Bernard Lown, at twenty-seven minutes past twelve o’clock noon, on motion of Mr. Fattman, the Senate adjourned to meet again on Monday next at eleven o’clock A.M.
